An Act about the interpretation and operation of legislation

Certified on 24 June 2011

Enacted by the Parliament of Nauru as follows:

PART 1 – PRELIMINARY MATTERS

1 Short title

This Act may be cited as the Interpretation Act 2011.

2 Commencement

This Act commences on 1 September 2011.

3 Application

This Act applies, subject to a contrary intention, to all written laws (including this Act) except the Constitution.

PART 2 – NUMBERING AND NOTIFICATION OF ACTS

4 Numbering of Acts

Each Nauru Act must be numbered in the order in which it was passed by Parliament.

5 Notification of Acts

The certification of each Nauru Act must be notified in the Gazette by:

- (a) publishing a notice in the Gazette:
  - (i) stating that the Act has been passed by Parliament and certified; and
  - (ii) specifying the place where the Act can be inspected; or
- (b) publishing the text of the Act in the Gazette.

PART 3 – MAKING, NUMBERING AND NOTIFICATION OF SUBSIDIARY LEGISLATION

Division 1 – Power to make subsidiary legislation

6 Who may make subsidiary legislation

If an Act authorises or requires the making of subsidiary legislation under the Act and does not specify who may make the subsidiary legislation, the subsidiary legislation may only be made by Cabinet.

7 General power to make subsidiary legislation

- (1) This section applies if an Act authorises or requires the making of subsidiary legislation under the Act.
- (2) Subsidiary legislation may be made in relation to any matter that:
  - (a) is required or permitted to be prescribed by the Act; or
  - (b) is necessary or convenient to be prescribed to carry out or give effect to the Act.
- (3) Subsection (2) applies even though the Act also authorises the making of subsidiary legislation for a particular purpose.
- (4) Subsidiary legislation made under the Act must not be inconsistent with the Act.

8            Subsidiary legislation may prohibit

If an Act authorises or requires a matter to be regulated by subsidiary legislation, the subsidiary legislation may prohibit the matter or any aspect of the matter.

9            Subsidiary legislation may provide for review or appeal

- (1) If an Act authorises or requires the making of subsidiary legislation under the Act, the subsidiary legislation may provide for the review of, or appeal against, a decision made under the subsidiary legislation.
- (2) For subsection (1), the subsidiary legislation may give jurisdiction to a court, tribunal, person or other body.

10          General power to prescribe fees

- (1) This section applies:
  - (a) if an Act authorises or requires fees to be prescribed generally for the Act by subsidiary legislation; and
  - (b) even if the Act also authorises or requires fees to be prescribed for a particular matter.
- (2) A fee may be prescribed:
  - (a) in relation to any matter under or related to the Act; or
  - (b) for a provision of the Act even if the provision does not mention a fee.

11          Method of prescribing fees

- (1) This section applies if an Act authorises or requires fees to be prescribed for the Act (either generally or in relation to a specific matter) by subsidiary legislation.
- (2) A fee may be prescribed by:
  - (a) stating the fee; or
  - (b) setting a rate, or providing a formula or other method, by which the fee must be worked out; or
  - (c) a combination of a stated fee and a rate, formula or other method.

- (3) The subsidiary legislation may provide for:
- (a) the exemption from payment of a prescribed fee; or
  - (b) the waiver (wholly or partly) of a prescribed fee; or
  - (c) the refund (wholly or partly) of a prescribed fee.

12      Subsidiary legislation may provide for infringement notice offences

If an Act authorises or requires the making of subsidiary legislation under the Act, the subsidiary legislation may provide for:

- (a) the payment of a prescribed amount instead of a penalty that may otherwise be imposed for an offence against the Act or the subsidiary legislation; and
- (b) the service of a notice relating to payment of the amount on a person alleged to have committed the offence; and
- (c) the details that must be included in the notice.

13      Subsidiary legislation may apply other instrument

If an Act authorises or requires the making of subsidiary legislation under the Act, the subsidiary legislation may apply, adopt or incorporate, with or without changes:

- (a) a matter contained in another instrument as in force or existing at a particular time or from time to time; or
- (b) another instrument as in force or existing at a particular time or from time to time.

Division 2 – Numbering and notification of subsidiary legislation

14      Definitions for Division 2

In this Division:

‘made’, for subsidiary legislation, includes adopted under a Nauru Act.

15        Numbering of subsidiary legislation

Subsidiary legislation must be numbered in the order in which it is made.

16        Notification of subsidiary legislation

The making of subsidiary legislation must be notified in the Gazette by:

- (a) publishing a notice in the Gazette:
  - (i) stating that the subsidiary legislation has been made; and
  - (ii) specifying the place where the subsidiary legislation can be inspected; or
- (b) publishing the text of the subsidiary legislation in the Gazette.

Note for section 16

Sections 20 and 22 deal with the commencement of subsidiary legislation before notification.

17        Tabling and disallowance of subsidiary legislation

- (1) In this section:

'disallowed legislation' means Nauru subsidiary legislation, or a provision of Nauru subsidiary legislation, disallowed under subsection (3).

- (2) Nauru subsidiary legislation must be tabled in Parliament within 6 sitting days after it is notified in the Gazette.
- (3) Parliament may, by resolution, disallow the subsidiary legislation or a provision of the subsidiary legislation if notice of the motion of disallowance is given within 6 sitting days after the subsidiary legislation is tabled.
- (4) The 6 sitting days mentioned in subsection (3) may occur during:
  - (a) one session of Parliament or over the course of more than one session of Parliament; or

- (b) one term of Parliament or over the course of more than one term of Parliament.
- (5) Notice of the disallowance must be published in the Gazette within 21 days after it occurs.
- (6) The disallowance has the same effect as repeal of the disallowed legislation.
- (7) However, despite section 29, if the disallowed legislation amended or repealed a provision of other subsidiary legislation in force immediately before the commencement of the disallowed legislation, the disallowance revives the other provision from the date of the disallowance as if the disallowed legislation had not been made.
- (8) Subsidiary legislation or a provision of subsidiary legislation that is the same in substance or effect as the disallowed legislation must not be made within 6 months after the disallowance.
- (9) Subsidiary legislation has no effect if it is:
  - (a) not tabled under subsection (2); or
  - (b) made in contravention of subsection (8).

18 Procedure for making rules and by-laws

- (1) This section applies if an Act contains a power for a person, other than the President or a Minister, to make rules or by-laws.
  - (2) All rules or by-laws made under the power must be:
    - (a) signed by the person making them, or, if that person is a body, by a person authorised by it to sign them; and
    - (b) given to the Minister administering the provision containing the power for notification in the Gazette.
  - (3) The Minister may return the rules or by-laws to the person who made them with recommended changes.
  - (4) If the Minister returns the rules or by-laws to the person with recommended changes, the person must:
    - (a) consider the recommended changes; and

- (b) return the rules or by-laws to the Minister for notification in the Gazette, whether or not the recommended changes are made.
- (5) To avoid doubt, sections 15, 16 and 17 apply to the rules or by-laws.

PART 4 – COMMENCEMENT OF WRITTEN LAWS

19 Commencement of Acts

- (1) An Act commences:
- (a) on certification; or
  - (b) if the Act provides for another date of commencement – on the other date.
- (2) However, the provisions of the Act providing for its name and commencement automatically commence:
- (a) on certification; or
  - (b) if a provision of the Act commences at a point in time before the Act is certified – at that point in time; or
  - (c) if 2 or more provisions of the Act commence at different point in time before the Act is certified – at the earliest of the points in time.
- (3) Unless it commences retrospectively under section 22, a Nauru Act cannot commence before it is certified.

20 Commencement of subsidiary legislation

- (1) Subsidiary legislation commences:
- (a) on notification; or
  - (b) if the subsidiary legislation or an Act provides for another date of commencement – on the other date.
- (2) However, the provisions of the subsidiary legislation providing for its name and commencement automatically commence:
- (a) on notification; or

- (b) if a provision of the subsidiary legislation commences at a point in time before the legislation is notified – on the commencement of the point in time; or
  - (c) if 2 or more provisions of the subsidiary legislation commence at different points in time before the legislation is notified – at the earliest of the points in time.
- (3) Unless it commences retrospectively under section 22, subsidiary legislation cannot commence before it is notified.

21 Time of commencement

If a provision of a written law commences on a particular day, it commences at the beginning of the day.

22 Retrospective commencement

- (1) An Act commences 'retrospectively' if it commences before it is certified.
- (2) Subsidiary legislation commences 'retrospectively' if it commences before it is notified.
- (3) A written law must not be taken to provide for the law (or another law) to commence retrospectively unless the law clearly indicates that it commences retrospectively.

Example for section 22(3)

The ABC Act 2011 was notified on 1 August 2011. It contains the following commencement provision:

"This Act is taken to have commenced on 1 July 2007."

The commencement provision clearly indicates that the Act commences retrospectively.

- (4) Also, a written law must not be taken to provide for a provision of subsidiary legislation to commence retrospectively unless:
  - (a) the date of commencement is not earlier than the date of commencement of the Act under which the subsidiary legislation is made; and

- (b) the provision of the subsidiary legislation does not operate to make a person liable to a penalty of any kind for anything done (or omitted to be done) before the subsidiary legislation is notified.

23 Commencement by commencement notice

- (1) If an Act is expressed to commence on a day fixed a person by Gazette notice:
  - (a) the person may fix a single day or time; or
  - (b) the person may fix different days or times for different provisions of the Act.
- (2) The person must not fix a day before the Act was certified unless the Act clearly indicates that the notice may do so.

24 Amendment before commencement

- (1) This section applies if a written law (the 'amending law') amends another written law that has not commenced (the 'uncommenced law').
- (2) The amendment of the uncommenced law does not of itself commence the law.
- (3) The amendment made by the amending law commences on the commencement of the uncommenced law and the uncommenced law commences as amended by the amending law.

25 Exercise of powers before commencement

- (1) If a power is given by a provision of a written law (the 'empowering provision') that has not commenced, the power may be exercised at any time before the empowering provision commences, but the exercise of the power does not take effect until the later of the following:
  - (a) the commencement of the empowering provision;
  - (b) the day it would have taken effect if the power were not exercised under this section.

- (2) If a power is given by a provision of a written law (the 'empowering provision') as amended by a provision of another law (the 'amending provision') and either the empowering or amending provision has not commenced, the power may be exercised at any time before the empowering or amending provision commences, but the exercise of the power does not take effect until the latest of the following:
- (a) the commencement of the empowering provision;
  - (b) the commencement of the amending provision;
  - (c) the day it would have taken effect if the power were not exercised under this section.

26 Reference to commencement

A reference in a written law to the commencement of the law, another written law or a foreign law (the 'relevant law') means:

- (a) if the relevant law commences on a single day or at a single time – the day or time; or
- (b) if different parts of the relevant law commence on different days or at different times – the last of those days or times.

'repeal' includes:

- (a) expiry; and
- (b) repeal of an adopted law in its application to Nauru.

28 Affect of repeal or amendment on previous operation of law

- (1) The repeal or amendment of a written law does not:
- (a) revive anything not in force or existing at the time the repeal or amendment takes effect; or

- (b) affect the previous operation of the repealed or amended law, or anything done, begun or suffered under the repealed or amended law; or
  - (c) affect an existing right, privilege, obligation or liability acquired, accrued or incurred under the repealed or amended law; or
  - (d) affect a penalty, forfeiture or punishment incurred under the repealed or amended law.
- (2) An investigation, proceeding or remedy in relation to anything mentioned in subsection (1)(c) or (d) may be started, continued or enforced as if the repealed or amended law had not been repealed or amended.

29 Repeal does not revive previous law

- (1) If a written law (the 'first law') is repealed by another law (the 'repealing law'), the first law is not revived only because the repealing law is itself repealed.
- (2) If a written law (the 'first law') is amended by another law (the 'amending law'), the continuing operation of the amendments made by the amending law to the first law is not affected only because the amending law is repealed.

30 Continuance of repealed provisions

If a provision of a written law repeals and substitutes a provision of another law, the repealed provision continues in force until the substituted provision commences.

31 References to repealed provisions

If a written law repeals and substitutes, with or without modification, a provision of another written law, a reference in any other written law to the provision is a reference to the substituted provision.

32 Confirmation of exercise of powers not required

- (1) This section applies if:
  - (a) a written law gives a person a power or function; and
  - (b) the law is amended; and

- (c) under the amended law, a person has the same power or function, whether or not it is the same person.
- (2) The exercise of the power or the performance of the function under the law before it was amended does not cease to have effect or need to be confirmed only because the law was amended.

33 Law and amending laws read as one

A written law and all written laws amending it must be read as one.

34 Status of modifications

If a written law is modified by another law, the written law operates as modified but the modification does not amend the text of the law.

Part 3, Division 1 deals with the power to make subsidiary legislation.

49 Interpretation to achieve purpose of law

- (1) In interpreting a written law, the interpretation that would best achieve the purpose of the written law must be preferred to any other interpretation.
- (2) This section applies whether or not the purpose of the written law is expressly stated in the written law.

50 Legislative context

In interpreting a written law, the provisions of the law must be read in the context of the law as a whole.

51 Non-legislative context – when extrinsic material may be considered

- (1) In interpreting a written law, material not forming part of the written law may be considered in order to:
- (a) resolve an ambiguous or obscure provision of the law; or
  - (b) confirm or displace the apparent meaning of the law; or
  - (c) find the meaning of the law when its apparent meaning leads to a result that is clearly absurd or is unreasonable.
- (2) In deciding whether material not forming part of the written law should be considered, the following matters must be taken into account:
- (a) the desirability of being able to rely on the ordinary meaning of the law, having regard to the purpose of the law and the provisions of the law in the context of the law as a whole;
  - (b) the undesirability of prolonging proceedings without compensating advantage;

- (c) the accessibility of the material to the public.

52 Non-legislative context – extrinsic material that may be considered

- (1) For section 51, the following material may be considered in interpreting an Act:
  - (a) material, not forming part of the Act, contained in an authorised version of the Act;

  - (b) any relevant report of a commission, committee (including a committee of Parliament) or other similar body that was tabled in Parliament:
    - (i) if the instrument was tabled in Parliament – with the instrument or before the instrument was tabled; or
    - (ii) otherwise – before the instrument was made;
  - (c) any relevant treaty or other international agreement to which Nauru is a party;

- (d) if the instrument was tabled in Parliament:
  - (i) the explanatory memorandum for the instrument, or any other relevant document, that was tabled with the instrument; and
  - (ii) the tabling statement made to Parliament in relation to the instrument;
  - (iii) official reports of proceedings in Parliament in relation to the instrument.
- (3) This section does not limit the material that may be considered in interpreting a written law.

53 Changes in drafting practice do not affect meaning

- (1) The purpose of this section is to encourage the making of progressive improvements in drafting practice without inadvertently changing the substantive effect of written laws.
- (2) Subsection (3) applies if:
  - (a) a provision of a written law expresses an idea in particular words; and
  - (b) either:
    - (i) a provision of the law or another written law enacted later appears to express the same idea in different words; or
    - (ii) the provision is replaced by another provision (whether or not in the same location) that appears to express the same idea in different words.
- (3) The ideas in the 2 provisions must not be taken to be different only because different words are used or the provisions are structured in different ways.

54 Construction of amending laws

Words and expressions contained in a written law that amends another written law have the same interpretation, application and effect as in the law being amended.

55 Construction of adopted laws

- (1) An adopted law must, subject to the written law giving it force or application in Nauru, be read with the modifications necessary for its application in Nauru.

Example for subsection (1)
