

Criminal hearing of November 29th 1912

The Public Prosecutor v Emile Pierre Déméne', trader, of Néle, accused of a breach of Article 59 of the Convention of October 20th 1906.

The year one thousand nine hundred and twelve, and the twenty-ninth day of November at 9 o'clock A.M., the Joint Court consisting of the President Court Buena Esperanza, the French Judge Jean Colonna, the British Judge T.E. Roseby; in the presence of the Public Prosecutor Court Andins;
M. Bengt being Registrar of the Court; Sitting in public audience as a court of first & last instance, in a case of police jurisdiction, after having duly deliberated in accordance with the Law, has delivered the following judgment:

The Joint Court.

Having heard the documents of the case;
Having heard M. My representing Déméne' in the reading of his conclusions with relation to the case; Having heard the witnesses Veloh & Balo, of Santo, being sworn,
in this evidence;
Having heard the Public Prosecutor in his charge; M. My on behalf of the accused having addressed the court last; Whereas from the enquiry held on November 18th 1912 by Captain Harronell and from the sworn evidence of the natives Veloh and Balo, it appears that Déméne' did in November one thousand nine hundred and twelve sell to natives two glasses of gin for the sum of one franc; and whereas M. My counsel for Déméne' objects that the case of flagrante delicto has not been proved & that in consequence Article 60 subsection 3 not having been observed, the procedure followed must be annulled by the Court; whereas, on this point, the enquiry prescribed by Article 60 subsection is only provided for in the case of flagrante delicto; but whereas the provisions of the civil article in no wise nullify the result which may be drawn up with regard to sale or gift of alcohol, by agents duly authorised for this act; and whereas, if there were amendment of them, it would be necessary for the application of Article 61 of the Convention that the sale or gift prohibited by Article 59 should be, in order to be punished by the penalties provided in Article 61, subsection 1, always followed by drunkenness; and as this is not the desire of the authors of the aforementioned Convention who saw in the consumption of alcohol by natives of the New Hebrides a danger likely to compromise their health and in consequence to decimate the race; and whereas the accused by his counsel M. By refuses to accept the evidence of the natives Valoh and Balo on account of the fact that, they being accused in the principal case, their statements could not be valid against De'mené the accused in the present case; and whereas the ~~dean~~ office of which the above-named natives have been guilty does not affect the Joint Court but the Administrative Authorities, and consequently, not being accused in the present instance, they can be admitted under oath to establish the breaches committed by the accused; and whereas, again, De'mené has been before convicted by application of Articles 59 and 61 of the Convention of October 20th 1906, in these terms: Article 59 "... it shall be forbidden to sell or to give to natives in any manner whatsoever and under any pretext whatsoever alcoholic drinks." Art. 61.1 The breaches of Articles ... 59 ... above mentioned committed by non-natives shall be punished by a fine of ^{from} 5 francs to 500 francs and ..."

Upon these grounds:

condemns De'mené to a fine of 50 francs and orders him to pay the costs.

Thus made, judged & pronounced, the day, month & year above-mentioned.
