- (d) a provision in the constitution that would result in the distribution of the property of that foundation to a non-charitable beneficiary overrides the power of the Court under paragraph (c)(ii) to apply cypres to vary or terminate the foundation only if, when the provision takes effect, the relevant property of the foundation is to revert to the founder and the founder is still living; and rendered the founder insolvent or without property by which a creditor's claim, if successful, may be satisfied:

(4) The creation of a Samoan foundation and a disposition of property to the Samoan foundation is not fraudulent as against a creditor of a founder if the creation or the disposition of property took place before that creditor's cause of action against the founder accrued or had arisen.

(5) A founder must not be imputed with intent to defraud a creditor if the founder:

- (a) has created a Samoan foundation or has disposed of property to the Samoan foundation within two (2) years from the date of the creditor's cause of action accruing; or
- (b) is a beneficiary.
